For each field below, can you construct a straight line with one end at A to create two new fields whose areas are the same as the original fields?