Coins

A man has five coins in his pocket.

He can make 13 different amounts of money with his coins.

The amounts of money he can make end with one of two possible digits.

He cannot make up exactly 70 pence.

He cannot afford an item costing one pound.

He can make a prime number bigger than ten with his coins.

Can you work out what the coins are?